

AQUARAMA IS MOVING...AND SHAKING UP IN THE PROCESS!

Yes, Aquarama has moved! However, rest assured that it has neither left the many-times-over “Ornamental Fish Capital of the World”, Singapore, nor its now-established and superlative venue, Suntec Singapore. It has merely moved from Halls 601-603 to Halls 401-403, i.e. two floors down from its present location.

Exhibitors will be glad to know that, by moving to the new lower level exhibition hall within Suntec, they will have fewer levels to haul their wares to and from the showground, while potential visitors will have fewer...um...‘distractions’ en route to Aquarama during the show days.

The 13th edition of Aquarama is also shaking up its exhibitor and visitor profiles with a recent expansion of territories. This expansion will enable Aquarama to further its reach more aggressively into new countries to bring in many more interesting and top international exhibitors and quality visitors to what is widely regarded as the most important event in the ornamental aquatic industry calendar.

Another element that is going through a shake-up is the highly acclaimed and famed Aquarama Fish Competition. Aquarama’s consultant and committees are currently revisiting all the judging criteria to ensure that each competitive category and class, not only continues to enjoy the premium reputation it has acquired worldwide, but also continues to improve in keeping with the status of this highly prestigious international competition.

Day and night at Aquarama’s ‘home’: Suntec Singapore.

PHOTOS: JOHN DAWES